

INDIGENOUS PEOPLES

-  Eight thousand infrastructure projects have been completed in #Mexico's indigenous communities to help improve access to drinking water, sewer systems and electricity. bit.ly/2ut3FyA
-  #México has assisted with 26,000 agricultural, handicraft and tourism projects that target the economic development of indigenous communities. bit.ly/2ut3FyA
-  #Mexico is working for inclusive development opportunities for its indigenous peoples bit.ly/2ut3FyA
-  #Mexico aims to guarantee the right to identity and access to justice for its indigenous peoples bit.ly/2ut3FyA

Source: Office of the Presidency

ELECTRICITY AUCTIONS

-  As a result of the clean energy auctions made possible by the energy reform, 52 power plants will be built with an investment of US$6.6 billion. bit.ly/2wu0isb
-  The projects to be financed are: the Reynosa III Wind Park to be located in Tamaulipas, the El Mezquite Wind Park in Nuevo Leon and a photovoltaic project in Aguascalientes. bit.ly/2wu0isb
-  #DidYouKnow that 52 power plants will be built in #Mexico with an investment of US$6.6 billion?
-  #DidYouKnow that Mexico's energy reform led to the #CleanEnergy auctions? bit.ly/2wu0isb

Source: Energy Ministry

MEGA STORMWATER DRAINAGE SYSTEM

-  President @EnriquePN inaugurated the Mega Stormwater Drainage System in #Campeche, which "has meant building a system of more than 20 km in length along various avenues. It will make it easier to drain rainwater from the streets and prevent flooding" during rainy season. bit.ly/2hLATmA
-  #GoodNews The Mega Stormwater Drainage System will ensure that #Campeche has enough drinking water for the next 50 years. bit.ly/2hLATmA
-  According to INEGI, 94% of Mexico's population already has a reliable source of drinking water in their homes. bit.ly/2hLATmA

Source: Office of the Presidency
Office of the Presidency

FOREIGN MINISTRY BLOG

Congress ratifies the appointment of Ambassador-designate Alcalá Ruiz to Colombia

Latin American countries and Canada issue joint declaration on Venezuela

Foreign Secretary Luis Videgaray discusses trade and investment opportunities for Mexico and Japan

Foreign Secretary Luis Videgaray meets with Foreign Minister Fumio Kishida

www.gob.mx/sre